POLICE NAB TEN ORIENTALS TO ONE WHITE MAN ON TRAFFIC LAW

Strange to say, no Japanese or Chinese were before Judge Monsarrat yesterday morning charged with violating traffic ordinances by not stopping bicycles within 10 feet of a street car, or committing other similar offenses. That is unusual, the Chinese and Japanese arrested by the vigilant traffic officers usually being much in evidence.

"It is a fact," remarked a regular attendant at the police court, "that the traffic officers grab every poor Oriental who makes a technical breach of the traffic ordinances, and do not see others who commit worse offenses. It is especially funny to see so many Japanese hauled up for violating the ordinances while riding bicycles, when a bicycle is not apt to hurt anyone, while drivers of automobiles and other vehicles which might do a great deal of damage are not molested."

"One officer had the nerve recently to bring in a Japanese who was riding a bicycle and charge that he stopped about eight feet in the rear of a street car, when according to the ordinance he should have stopped 10 feet back of the car."

"About the only man I ever saw arrested for violating traffic ordinances at the corners downtown who was well known was the secretary of the territory, and he was acquitted in a few minutes."

"But it is very seldom that the Japanese and Chinese, who do not understand the ordinances any way, and whose violations are mostly minor, are let off without fines."

"Police records show that about 10 times as many Japanese and Chinese are arrested for traffic violations as people of all other nationalities."

TUBERCULOUS CHINESE ORDERED TO TURN CAFE OVER TO OTHER HANDS

The first active step by the Anti-Tuberculosis League in its campaign to wipe any possible taint of the "great white plague" from restaurants was taken yesterday when a Chinese who conducts an eating house at Waipahu was ordered to either leave the business in other hands or give it up entirely.

According to D. L. Mackaye, secretary of the anti-tuberculosis bureau of the board of health, the Chinese at Waipahu is known to be affected with tuberculosis, but, in spite of the disease, he has been personally conducting the business. In connection with this incident, Secretary Mackaye and J. H. Fischer today began an investigation of all the restaurants in Honolulu to ascertain whether proprietors or employees have tuberculosis; or are suspects.

The bureau's report for October shows that there were 23 deaths in the territory from tuberculosis last month. Of this number, five were in Honolulu. Sixty-nine new cases were reported during the month, of which 31 were in Honolulu.

A sanitary inspector discovered in Palama yesterday a Hawaiian woman in the last stages of tuberculosis. She had been in hiding and had refused to go to a doctor. The woman has three children, the oldest being only six years. They were examined at a clinic at the bureau's office yesterday, and within a few days it will be known whether they have the disease.

The night watchman at the fish markets was found to be tuberculous, and the bureau offered him a bed in Leahi Home. The man said he would not accept the bed until he had spent all his money, as he did not expect to get well.

STAR-BULLETIN PROVES EXCELLENT MEDIUM FOR ADVERTISING PRODUCTS

"I read it in the Star-Bulletin" is a common expression both at home and on the mainland, and Marshal J. J. Smiddy today pointed out where a local product may be thoroughly experienced with because of the fact that those interested in the product read about it "in the Star-Bulletin."

Not long ago the Star-Bulletin published an interview with Marshal Smiddy to the effect that an eastern ally-

Honore had become interested in kukui nuts and their oil-producing qualities. Representatives of the concern had read the Star-Bulletin, the letter said.

NO RELEASE FROM JURY DUTY TO LET ANOTHER OF FIRM GO TO COAST

A member of Circuit Judge Ashford's trial jury met with a flat refusal from the court when he asked to be excused from duty for a few weeks as a member of the firm by which he is employed wants to go to the mainland.

"The business of this court has got to run along," declared Judge Ashford, with emphasis. "We cannot grant excuses and necessitate new panels merely because, one after another, employees of certain houses in this city go to the coast for a visit."

The jurymen in question stated that it would be necessary for him to fill the place of his associate while the latter was on the mainland.

"You will not be excused," said Judge Ashford.
